DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on May 18, 2009 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Caenen et al. (FR 2,718,635) over Heldreth et al. (EP 0636352 A2).

Caenen et al. disclose an intervertebral disc prosthesis including: two cover plates (1, 2) and a prosthesis core 3 connected to cover plate 2 by connection profiles undercut in a complementary manner, disposed symmetrically with respect to an anterior-posterior direction of the prosthesis (please refer to the translation provided with the previous office action).

Caenen et al. disclose a hub or core 3 positioned on a lower plate by means of a system preventing rotation around the axis of the prosthesis.

Caenen et al. disclose all elements of the claimed invention except for an engagement profile with a leading edge having a triangular configuration with a single tip projecting outward beyond the lateral edges.

Heldreth et al. teach a tongue and groove attachment between two components of a prosthesis that is continuous with a lead-in angle between 1 and 179 degrees, i.e., a triangular configuration with a single projecting tip, to resist sliding and separation between the components (Figs. 1, 5, 8 and 9, col. 1, lines 25-47, col. 2, lines 43-58 and col. 3).

The substitution of one known type of interlocking engagement (Heldreth et al.) for another known type of interlocking engagement (Caenen et al.) would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made since this amounts to simple substitution of one known type of interlocking engagement for another and would have yielded predictable results, namely, positive engagement of two elements.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the rejections of claims 1 and 3 under 35 USC 103(a) have been considered but are not persuasive for the following reason.

In response to applicant's arguments against only Caenen, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). It is the examiner's position that the combination of Caenen et al. and Heldreth et al. renders obvious Applicant's claimed invention.

Contrary to applicant's arguments, Heldreth et al. clearly show a connection profile with a leading edge having a triangular configuration with a single tip projecting outward beyond lateral edges. See marked up Fig. 1 from Heldreth et al. on the following page.

Applicant's arguments with respect to the "inward pointing tip" of Heldreth et al. are not relevant since they are not directed to applicant's claimed invention.

The examiner suggests defining the "complementary undercut connection profile" on the cover plate to recite structure similar to the core, specifically, "single tip projecting outward beyond lateral edges," to overcome the above rejection.
